

Rio Grande Cut Sandstone

Rio Grande Cut Sandstone panels come in four distinct rock arrangements. Each rock is unique and is never duplicated throughout the product line. Our Cut Sandstone panels feature an overlapping ship-lap edge and are formed into a "Z" shape to eliminate the otherwise very visible transition line between adjoining panels. Additionally, the horizontal joints are interconnected with concealed chamfered edges. Consequently, all four edges of our Cut Sandstone panels are locked-in creating a strong and durable bond to the substrate, completely concealing all screw heads and eliminating the need for applying fasteners within the rock field. The unique combination of these features creates a natural and seamless look.
